Parent/Guardian Message:

On January 14, 2021, the Clark County School District Board of Trustees approved a plan to transition students in Pre-Kindergarten through Grade 3 into the hybrid instructional model. At this time, we do not know when the hybrid instructional model for Pre-Kindergarten through Grade 3 will be implemented but it is essential to begin planning. Understanding that decisions may have changed since the fall hybrid questionnaire and in an effort to accommodate our families, we are reaching out again to gather your preferences for your Pre-Kindergarten through Grade 3 children. Please complete the short questionnaire at CCSD Parent Survey by 6:00 p.m. on Friday, January 29, 2021. Thank you for your assistance.

El 14 de enero de 2021, el Consejo Escolar del Distrito Escolar del Condado de Clark aprobó un plan para hacer la transición al modelo de enseñanza híbrida de los estudiantes de Preescolar al 3.º grado. En este momento, no sabemos cuando se implementará el modelo de enseñanza híbrida para preescolar al 3.º grado, pero es esencial empezar la planificación. Entendiendo que las decisiones pueden haber cambiado desde el cuestionario híbrido del otoño y en un esfuerzo para acomodar a nuestras familias, estamos comunicándonos nuevamente para recopilar sus preferencias para sus niños de preescolar al 3.º grado. Por favor complete el breve cuestionario en CCSD Parent Survey antes de las 6:00 p.m. el viernes, 29 de enero de 2021. Gracias por su cooperación.

Attendance and Grades Check

Check Attendance:

Parents check that your child's attendance is correct and they are counted present daily. Students missing ten days straight can be withdrawn.

Check Grades:

Parents check your child's grades in Infinite Campus. We have had situations where parents believed students were doing work but they were not. Grade checks weekly at home can help build responsibility in the child's academic performance.

FAQ: NEVADA'S EVICTIONS BAN

How does Nevada's new eviction ban impact residential evictions?
Nevada's new eviction ban prevents protected tenants from being evicted from residential properties through March 31, 2021. Importantly, the ban is not automatic so tenants must take action to protect themselves.

How do I claim the new ban's protections?
Tenants must give their landlord a signed declaration verifying that they meet all of the ban's eligibility criteria (just like tenants needed to do under the federal CDC eviction ban). Tenants can deliver the declaration to their landlord any way they want—by hand-delivery, certified mail, or email—but must keep a record of how and when it was delivered.

Who is eligible for the ban's protection?
Tenants are eligible if they (1) are unable to pay rent for a COVID-related reason, (2) expect to make less than $9,000 in 2020 ($18,000 if filing jointly), and (3) are likely to become homeless or forced into a group living situation if evicted.

What if I already gave my landlord a declaration under the federal CDC ban?
If you've already given your landlord a signed CDC declaration, you don't need to give your landlord a new declaration. The CDC declaration works for Nevada's ban too.

What kinds of evictions does the new ban prevent?
The new ban prevents most types of evictions so long as the tenant has given the landlord a signed declaration and is currently behind on rent. This includes evictions for failure to pay rent, evictions for staying on the property after the lease expires, and "no-cause" evictions.

What kinds of evictions does the new ban allow?
The new ban doesn't prevent evictions for lease violations not related to rent or fees, evictions for "at-will" tenants (like an invited guest who refuses to leave), evictions related to nuisances, or certain evictions where a tenant rents a space in a mobile home park. The new ban might also allow eviction if the landlord can prove to the judge that (1) the tenant truly doesn't qualify for the ban's protections, or (2) the landlord is facing a realistic risk of foreclosure before March 31 unless the landlord can evict.
